Working Men's Requirements

The needs of the man whose work is hard on clothing get Special Consideration at this store. What the working man is looking for in clothing, as we understand it is

Strength

So that strength is exactly the one particular thing that we always demand in working mens needs. Because we recognise that every extra days wear a man gets out of his clothing is just so much to the good. So we are stocked up full to overflowing with selected, tested lines that we offer to the working man with confidence. The strongest materials put together in the strongest manner—that's the secret. We invite you to call.

For sale on terms—Top buggy, International hay baler, one set double harness, hardwood, heavy wagon, 1200lb. scales. — Apply James Martin, Didsbury.

Remember the date of Taub & Sons' visit to Didsbury and if your eyes trouble you in any way consult them at Chambers' drug store on Thursday, November 25th.

The sale of Ayrshire cattle held in Didsbury on Wednesday afternoon was not attended by a large number of buyers although prices were good generally, ranging from $65 to $150 for cows, heifers and calves. There did not seem to be much demand for bulls.

The following letter speaks for itself: Camrose, Alta., Nov. 2, 1909. M. Weber, Didsbury.

Dear Sir,—Ship me five sacks (5 sacks) pastry flour at once. We have been trying a good many kinds of pastry flour since we have been in business and find yours the best for our use. Please ship at once. Draw at sight, Merchants Bank. Yours truly, B. R. Orser. The Rose City Bakery.

We are having a great many enquiries for improved land in the Didsbury district. If your farm is for sale send us particulars with the number, price and terms and we will find you a buyer.—Kennedy & Clarke, Real Estate and Money Lending Agents, Carstairs.

The induction of Rev. D. H. Marshall into the pastorate of the Presbyterian church will take place on Tuesday evening next, November 23rd, in the Presbyterian church. A number of ministers from Calgary and other places will be present. After the induction a social evening will be spent and refreshments served. Services will commence at 7.30.

Children's clothes and plain sewing done. Apply at Mrs. E. O. Livingston, next to Presbyterian Manse.

One of our subscribers took us to task this week for failing as he remarked, to publish all that happened. It was fortunate for this individual that discretion occasionally demands the omission of unpleasant items. Should we publish all that is told us we would be with the angels in about 20 minutes after our papers were mailed. We try to print all items that are news, or that will encourage help or cheer any of our citizens along life's rugged road. We all doubtless would enjoy "reading all the news," when it's about the other fellow, but our policy is to turn over to the gossips the spreading of scandals that only leave sorrows in their trail.

J. E. Hauffer, M.P.P., is putting in a few days in the Olds district at present.

Wanted—Girl, wages $20 per month.—Apply Box 14, Pioneer Office.

The Weber brothers threshed 4536 bushels of oats in less than a day. The average for three and a half days was 4088 bushels per day.

R. B. Martin on his return from Ontario a week or so ago brought back to Didsbury fourteen registered Clydesdale horses amongst them being five young stallions.

Eggs for sale by the dozen or by the case.—A. A. Perrin, egg dealer, Didsbury.

Services of the Methodist body are at present being held in the Baptist Church. Service at 3.30, Sunday school at 2.30. All are welcome.

The Socialists have nominated S. W. Welch to oppose Hon. Duncan Marshall in the Olds constituency at the forthcoming election.

Your eyes will appreciate the ease and comfort derived from proper fitting glasses, so if you have eye trouble don't fail to consult Taub & Sons at Chambers' drug store on Thursday, November 25th.

Programmes have been issued for the forthcoming Sunday school convention to be held at Carstairs on December 1st and 2nd. The programme is a good one and it is hoped that a large number of delegates will be present to take part in the discussions.

NOTICE.—Any person who uses any bridge on or about the property of His Majesty in connection with the movement of any steam engine will be held responsible for any damage done as provided for in S 861 of the Public Works Act.—A. McNaughton, Secretary, L.L.D. 10-A-5.

The Rev. Gerald Potts, late of Christ Church, Hamilton, Ont., who is now in charge of the Church of England in Didsbury, held his first service here on Sunday night last taking for his text "And if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." He preached a splendid sermon showing that his stand is "Christ Crucified." Mr. Potts is an eloquent and forcible preacher and the residents of Didsbury are very fortunate in being able to welcome him amongst them.

Sudden Death

John Doerksen, a well known homesteader of the east country, came into town on Monday and after putting up his team went to the Alexandra hotel to stay for the night. While sitting in the reading room of the hotel he fell onto the floor in an epileptic fit from which he gradually recovered but shortly afterwards he was seized with another fit about 6.30 p.m., and before medical aid could reach him he was dead. Dr. Weart was called at once but after working over him for a considerable time all hopes were given up.

Mr. Doerksen was about 65 years of age and unmarried, coming to this district from Gretna, Man., a few years ago. Mr. Geisbrecht of Sunnyvale is an uncle and Mrs. J. D. Dueck, Neapolis, a cousin of Mr. Doerksen's, he also leaves two brothers who are living in Manitoba. The body was taken to Gretna, Man., on Tuesday night for burial.

Profit on Hogs.

A Manitoba farmer says he can make a good profit on raising hogs when they sell at $5.50 or $5.55 per 100 pounds. The ruling price at Winnipeg at present is $7.50, and if the farmer in question can make a profit at $5.50, it must be a pretty good business to be in when prices are $2.00 higher. Not long ago hogs sold here at $9.00 per hundred pounds.

The Western farmer should consider the matter carefully before abandoning hog raising. A hog raiser in this province said the other day: "Twenty years ago I was laughed at when I told the then few farmers in our district that the future Manitoba farmer would have to be a mixed farmer. They could see nothing in the future but grain growing. Most of them have since seen their mistake and now have herds of cattle and hogs. Some, however, are slow in changing their views, but they are bound to have herds sooner or later. I combine live stock raising and general farming. My experience has been that the land must be put back to grass every few years and the most profitable way is pasturing certain sections each year. There is nothing better than a herd of cattle to keep the weeds down and the next season the ground is richer by far than the preceding."—Commercial.

Another Constable Appointed

The Council held their regular meeting in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, two councillors and the Mayor being absent. Councillors Hembling, Osmond, Hunsperger, Moyer, Secretary Read and Solicitor Patterson being present.

In the absence of the Mayor, Councillor Hembling was elected to fill the chair for the evening.

A communication was read from Mr. P. W. Wilson complaining of the town draining water on his property.

The Secretary was instructed to take up the matter with Mr. Wilson.

A copy of the regulations governing the awards of the Kings medal to policemen and firemen for bravery was received, and on motion filed for future reference.

Accounts from M. Ryckman for building sidewalks $12.25; G. Ryckman, $9.58; C. Hielbert, coal, $2.45; W. Hunsperger for gravel and hauling, $22; Alberta Culvert Co., culverts, $21.20; E. Morrison building crossings, $7.10 were O.K'd by Finance Committee and passed by Council.

Dr. Lackner was present and wished for information as to why the brush was not cut and fire guards plowed as promised in east Didsbury. Also what the town was willing to pay for the sidewalk on King Edward street which was put down by residents of east Didsbury before incorporation.

It was stated by the chairman of the Board of works that they were unable to get teams to do the plowing before the ground was frozen up and that a man would be put on to cut the brush as soon as possible.

The Council decided that as soon as they could get a proper valuation of the worth of the said sidewalk the ratepayers would be paid for same.

The Council also instructed the secretary to write the C. and E. land Company re cutting the brush off their property to protect the east part of town as much as possible from fire.

O. W. HEMBLING

As it was only a few minutes to eleven o'clock and the Council stood adjourned at that time a motion was made that the meeting be continued.

A by-law was drafted and given three readings appointing O. W. Hembling auditor at a salary of $15 a year.

A report was received from the Chairman of the fire water and light committee recommending the appointment of P. DeFehr as policeman, his salary to be $3.00 per week and $2.50 for arrest and conviction of offenders. Adopted.

A by-law appointing Mr. DeFehr policeman was then given three readings and passed.

Arrangements were completed for the forthcoming election of Mayor and Councillors for next year. Nomination day is Monday, December 6th, and elections one week later.

The Council then adjourned.

Beginning the day's work at 2 a. m.

It takes all sorts of people to make a nation. Among the curious people we have in Canada are the Trappist monks, who have three monasteries in the Dominion. For them the day's work begins at 2 a. m. Rising from his straw mattress, laid on the floor in an attic room, the Trappist commences his daily round of duties and of worship long before sunrise. Weird in the extreme is the sight of the monks gliding ghost-like in single file to their chapel, where for hours they engage in prayer. On the seats are placed very fine specimens of books of services splendidly bound and richly illuminated in colors. The chants also sound weirdly in the still morn, and the effect is accentuated when the monastic bell peals out its rich tones. But all the time of the Trappist is not given to prayer and meditation, although the greater part of the day is devoted to spiritual things. The Trappist is a farmer as well as a priest, and the Oka farm of 800 acres is one of the best tilled in that part of Canada. All kinds of grain are grown, an excellent vegetable garden is maintained, and a large orchard and vineyard adds picturesqueness to the rural scene. When the hour for farm work comes, the Trappist dons a working gown, and again in single file, march silently to the garden. Some are allotted to the gardens, where one may see them with great industry on their knees, not praying this time, but indulging in the more worldly occupation of weeding the onion bed or hoeing the turnips and carrots. Their agricultural achievements and their peculiar mode of life are described in detail in the November Bony Man's.

No one finds happiness without often turning his back on pleasure.

The world always sees something more practical in painting a pump than in purifying the water down out of sight.—Exchange.

Neapolis

Threshing is almost completed, and the general report of the crop is very good. Mr. A. A. Dick reports 86 bushels per acre of oats.

The Neapolis school can boast of a flowing well of soft water; it raised six feet above the ground.

Mr. J. D. Ferguson had the misfortune to break his arm just above the wrist last week.

Mr. John Hight went to Edmonton for an uncertain time. I wonder why.

The frost of the last few nights has put an end to the plowing for this season.

Mr. W. Reddekoppe invested in a driving outfit consisting of a horse, top buggy and harness. Looks pretty swell Jack.

The box social was good, the boxes went to high prices for the small crowd that was present. Proceeds amounted to nearly $70.00 which will be applied on the organ fund.

CHAPTER VI.

"WHEN GOD HATH JOINED TOGETHER LET

NO MAN PUT ASUNDER."

He had come directly to his subject, feeling that it was best so. Mrs. Penrose looked at him in the greatest astonishment.

"You—love—Dorothy?" she said slowly.

"Yes," replied Malcolm Kirk simply.

"I have loved her for four years. Ever since I entered the seminary, in fact."

Mrs. Penrose sat still and looked more keenly at the awkward, homely figure in her reception room. She was a woman of great quickness of perception.

To do her justice she had been previously a large fund of fairness and a sense of justice which came to her through a long line of pilgrim ancestors.

She saw in the man who had just declared his love for her niece so abruptly something more than a common average man. There was a look in his eye that spoke of limitless endurance, and his voice was of an unusual quality, very nearly if not quite equal to a rare gift of music or art.

She rose and walked over to the window and looked out into the night.

Then she turned toward Malcolm Kirk and said with some emphasis:

"What you have so suddenly told me, Mr. Kirk, is, I think, a very great surprise to me. I suppose you know that Mr. Inleigh is a lover of Dorothy?"

"No more than I am," said Malcolm Kirk quietly.

"I suppose you know he is an old friend of the family and that Mr. Gilbert favored his suit?"

"That has nothing to do with my love for her," said Malcolm Kirk softly.

Mrs. Penrose smiled slightly. Then she frowned and looked somewhat anxiously at him.

"What do you expect to do?" she asked somewhat vaguely.

"I am going to ask Dorothy Gilbert to be my wife."

"If she loves you?" said Mrs. Penrose, a little grimly.

"Of course, if she loves me," replied Malcolm Kirk simply.

There was silence in the room. A servant came in quietly and lighted two long candles on the mantel.

The dusk and the candlelight blended together softly, and Malcolm Kirk looked out of his side of the room at Dorothy's aunt with a somewhat pale face, calm, however, and fully self-possessed.

Even Francis Inleigh, with all his inherited instincts to come to her gentlemanly habits, was not equal to Malcolm Kirk during a supreme crisis.

Mrs. Penrose was silent again, with the dawn again. Then she returned and took a seat near Malcolm Kirk.

"Of course after what you have told me, Mr. Kirk, it is not surprising to see the awkwardness of the situation—it will be embarrassing for you and Mr. Inleigh to meet."

"Why?" asked Malcolm Kirk.

"Well, it will, won't it?" she asked in some slight irritation.

"I don't think so. I have nothing to be embarrassed about."

Mrs. Penrose was silent again. After the lapse of a few moments she said:

"I have not asked you what your prospects are, Mr. Kirk. Pardon me if I seem abrupt, but you have set me the example. I am the nearest relative Dorothy has now since my brother's death. She has been accustomed all her life to the comforts of wealth. To such comforts as these?" Her glance swept the room carefully, but with studied meaning. "May I ask what you can offer Dorothy in case?"

"In case she becomes my wife?" said Malcolm Kirk, completing the sentence.

"Yes, in case she becomes your wife."

His face had grown a little paler, and the muscles around his mouth had stiffened while Mrs. Penrose was speaking. But he observed her calmly enough.

"I can offer her a home and comforts. I have a definite position. I do not need to say that I am poor. My life in the Home Missionary field to which I am going will be full of hardships. My wife would share them with me. I ought perhaps to say—he spoke with the first hesitation he had yet shown—that I have a possible source of income in my pen. I expect to earn as much as my salary by that means. I have once or twice done that during my college and seminary course."

"So that the most you can offer my niece would be $1200 or $1500 a year?" asked Mrs. Penrose, with the nearest approach to sharpness.

"By no means, madam!" said Malcolm Kirk, and his face grew paler.

"The eloquence of his answer," said the most I can offer is the love I bear her, and all the money in the world without that would be very little to me."

"It's right about that," Mrs. Penrose spoke to herself softly. Malcolm Kirk did not hear what she said, but then at that time he did not know her history nor the inner emptiness of her unloved married life.

There was silence again in the room. The two candles on the mantel were distinct and clear now as the dusk had slowly deepened.

A step came on the path, and the door opened. Mrs. Penrose and Malcolm Kirk both rose as Dorothy entered the reception room alone.

She came in with her head erect, and there was light enough for her aunt to know that she was poor. Dorothy, can she share such a life with me? Must I give this back, or may I keep it all ways?"

She was sitting with her face partly in shadow, and she slowly rose and turned and faced him. Like all girls who dream of lovers, she had her dreams, her ideals, her imaginings. She looked up at him now, and the blood rushed impetuously through him as he saw the beginning of her answer. She had learned to love him during his absence abroad, during her recent sorrow, during the days that followed her bereavement. It was not so sudden as it might seem, for Dorothy had learned when Inleigh spoke to her that afternoon that the greatest reason why she could not love him was because she already loved Malcolm Kirk. So she gave him then and there what he asked. Al. Malcolm Kirk, not this side of heaven will you know the answer of that soul that lifted your heart and all it contained when you first heard the woman you loved say as she lifted her face to yours: "Yes, I will share your life with you. Yes, I love you."

Two hours later Malcolm Kirk went out into the starry night and down on the sea breeze blowing about his uncovered head he thanked God for the precious privilege of this woman's heart. They had had much to say, as true lovers always have. Always they had come back to the undying truth: that each of them had been "She loves me," he kept saying to himself. A. A. the waves and the night wind and the stars and the harbor lights and the moon and the stars joined in the same song. He walked up and down the sands until the early morning. He found his face wet once or twice with tears, and a long strip of beach exultant and walked from one of his reveries to find himself knee deep in water, for the tide was coming in, and the sea was beating at his feet. He had been so close to the one that had risen in his own spirit.

But he drew back out of the water, laughing and smiling, and went to the Inn down by the pier where he had breakfasted. But what he ate or whether he ate anything was probably unknown to him; at least he had been unable to give Dorothy satisfactory answers when he came back to the house.

His dream was a reality. She met him with the look on her face that he never to die out of it as long as he lived, and together they went to see Mrs. Penrose.

Dorothy's aunt was somewhat perplexed and, to tell the truth, a good deal astonished at the events of the last two days. Dorothy had told her all, and she was a long time to "Penrose's" mind that the daughter of John Gilbert had made her definite choice, and that she had chosen a young man, a young minister as her future husband. She could not deny that the young man was a gentleman; after all, he was a question of realities of mind and heart. But the fact remained that he had no prospects except his Home Missionary field and a somewhat uncertain income from occasional writings.

When she pictured Dorothy in a sad home or a dingy or a shanty in that ragged, wretched place of "the west," living in a parish of plain, uneducated people, such as she pictured for her daughter, she felt a pang of regret for the life she had chosen.

Mrs. Penrose felt as if Dorothy's strange choice was the strangest thing she ever knew.

"And yet she loves him truly," she said to herself as Dorothy and Malcolm Kirk came in that morning, both of them glorified by the greatest thing that had happened in the world. She looked so beautiful. Kirk had never felt so like a giant in possibility.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson VIII.—Fourth Quarter,
For Nov. 21, 1920.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 11 Cor. xi, 21, to xii, 10.—Memory Verses, 24, 25.—Golden Text, 11 Cor. xii, 3.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The topic of this lesson is "Paul's Story of His Life," and yet that seems to be more fully told in his testimony before Agrippa in chapter xxvi, or even in his address from the castle stairs in chapter xxii, or more completely in Phil. iii, or more fully by putting these three records together. The verses selected us for today's study are rather a resume of his sufferings, with special reference to his being stoned to death at Lystra and his marvelous experience at that time. With such a record as that in chapter xii, 25-28, who is there today who has anything that can begin to compare with it in the matter of suffering for Christ's sake? At the time of his conversion the Lord said to Ananias, "I will show him how great things he must suffer for my sake" (Acts ix, 16), and this seems in our eyes as if He had filled the bill. There is no one who understands a test, but being in Him all is well for time and eternity. Then to be able to say truly "Christ liveth in me" (Gal. ii, 20), is a promise of every true believer. Insure the unification of His life in us.

There is, however, another phase of the suffering question in Heb. xii, 12, which is of bringing us to His glory and of Him as the captain of our salvation being made perfect through sufferings. He is our true priest, who can be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, for He was in all points tempted like as we are (Heb. ii, 18). Now, since by His atonement He has made us kings and priests unto God, having washed us from our sins in His own blood, and we have been clothed with the new man (Eph. i, 5, 6), to be able to remember that to be able to reign with Him we must suffer with Him (11 Tim. ii, 12). By His atonement made fit for His presence, but by our suffering with Him here as His redeemed ones made fit to sit in the place in His kingdom where He is preparing for us while He prepares us for it; hence we have a little light on the great mystery of the believer's sufferings as seen everywhere in greater or less degree.

If by His grace we are patient under all our trials we are winning for ourselves a special crown—the crown of life (Rev. ii, 10). He, who we shall have to cast at His feet in that day. And not only so, but the power of Christ is seen upon us to His glory. The victory under trial as it could not otherwise be seen. Paul therefore says, "Most gladly will I glory in my sufferings, for I know that the power of Christ may rest upon me" (2 Cor. xii, 9). It is something like Phil. i, 29, where he says, "I must still be magnified in my body, whether I live or be by death."

While Paul had unusual fellowship in suffering, he had also some unusual revelations. Not only was his conversion made manifest, but the various manifestations of the Lord to him afterward were very remarkable, as was also the revelation of "the mystery" of which he was chosen to be an apostle. He tells us that, lest the abundance of the revelations should unduly exalt him, there was given him a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan, to buffet him. He tells us that he asked the Lord three times to deliver him from it, but the answer was, "My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness" (verse 10). I do not know how we can be quite sure as to what this thorn in the flesh was, but it was not a physical ailment, for he says, "I will boast if it is best for us to know. Some one has said that we are not told what it was in order that if any one has a thorn in the flesh he may find a bit of comfort in supposing that that was just what Paul had. This certainly is true; that if any believer has a physical ailment and cannot get it removed by prayer or by the physician's skill then the answer to Paul must be given to him, for the Lord would not give to him a thorn for His glory, while these words were said to Paul, they were written for us.

There is a special vision and revelation of our lessons. It seems to have been about the time that Paul was stoned to death at Lystra, and it is a story that while Paul's dead body was being dragged out of Lystra (Acts xiv, 19) he was in the third heaven, or paradise, where he here described and saw and heard things that he could not put into earthly language. We have no record of anything that Lazarus of Bethany said when he was raised from the dead, but it is probable because words could not utter it. The best thing I have ever read on these heavenly realities is "The Trance of Rev. William Tennant," once a unit-for at Freehold, N. J., who was dead for three days and afterward preached the gospel for many years. It is a little tract published by Miss M. E. Munson, 77 Hillie House, New York. This lesson is to be able to say, "I know a man in Christ" (111, 2), for we are in Christ, we are certainly lost, but being in Him all is well for time and eternity. Then to be able to say truly "Christ liveth in me" (Gal. ii, 20), is a promise of every true believer. Insure the unification of His life in us.

Poem

Teacher—Now, Willie, you describe the North Pole as nearly as you can from hearsay.

Teacher—Don't want to, ma'am.

Teacher—Don't want to? Why not?

Willie—All I've heard about it is smoke, ma'am, and not a word of talk in talkin' that way she'd take me and run away over to grandmaw's—Boston Herald.

Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd.

Gentlemen,—We have used MINARD'S LINIMENT on my vessel and in my family for years and for the every day ills and accidents of life I consider it a valuable remedy.

I would not start on a voyage without it, if it cost a dollar a bottle.

CAPT. F. R. DESJARDINS, Sch. "Stroker," St. Andre, Kamouraska.

The minister in a rural church gave out the hymn, "I Love to Tell What God Hath Done," etc. The regular old preacher being absent, his function developed upon a good old deacon, who commenced, "I Love to Stal," and then sang, "I Love to Stal," and then higher, he then sang, "I Love to Stal."

At length, after a desperate struggle, he made a nasal demonstration and roared out, "I Love to Stal."

The effort was too much. Every one but the parson was laughing. He rose, and with the utmost coolness said, "Seeing our brother's propensities, let us pray."

The Folly of the Mean

John D. Rockefeller never wears of impressing on the young the folly of mean and parsimonious habits. In one of his most recent interviews he said:

"These miserly people reap nothing but discomfort from their false economies. Take, for example, the case of Mrs. Silas Young of Sarnia."

"Martha," said old Silas, one fall day, "I think I'll go and get a few apples from the orchard."

"He looked at her timidly. She said:

"Well, be careful now, Si, only to pick the bad ones."

"Suppose there ain't no bad ones, Martha?"

"Then you'll have to wait till some goes bad of course," the old lady snapped. "We can't afford to eat good, sound fruit with 3 cents a bushel."

New Husband—"Did you make those biscuits, my dear?"

His Wife—"Yes, darling."

Her Husband—"Well, I'd rather you would not make any more, sweet heart."

His Wife—"Why not, love?"

Her Husband—"Because, angel mine, you are too tight for such heavy work."—Chicago Daily News.

Mrs. Chugwater—Josiah, what is a "swastika" (momentarily at a loss)—Do you mean to say you don't know what a swastika is? A swastika is—why, blame it, a swastika is the name of the Eskimo that helped Cook discover the North Pole.

The Optimist

"I'm sorry to hear your mule died," I said to Happy Sam.

"Oh, it's all right boys," he returned, resignedly. "I ain't got no kick comin'."—November Lippincott's.

Away with Depression and Melancholy—These two evils are the accompaniment of a disordered stomach and torpid liver and mean wretchedness to all whom they visit. The surest and speediest way to combat them is with Parment's Vegetable Pills, which will restore the healthy action of the stomach and bring relief. They have proved their usefulness in thousands of cases and will continue to give relief to the suffering who are wise enough to use them.

Two rusties in the old country were discussing one day a newly-erected postal pillar box in a village street. For a long time they were unable to think of its use, when suddenly one said:

"An' knock it belongs to 't Salvation Army; that's why it's painted red."

But after a little consideration the other replied:

"That's wrong, lad; it can't belong to they, because it says 'No collection on Sundays.'"

WHY GIRLS SUCCEED.

The Business Warden Must Be Careful With Her Penicils.

One of the hardest lessons the business girl has to learn is to save, says Barbara Boyd.

It is difficult for youth, with its enthusiasm and ambitious and rose colored view of life, to anticipate want.

Whereas for age, there's a "Prize Charming coming some day who will take care of her."

It is difficult to save on $6 a week.

But nevertheless a girl should resolutely make herself save.

And if she once gets the habit, if she acquires ever so small a bank account, this helps her.

It pays to start a saving fund, if only with $1, just for the little nickle it makes in the memory and the insistent voice with which it asks for more.

Many schemes are devised by business girls to help them save. One gets a number of little envelopes labeled with her various needs—"luncheon," "car fare," "church," "board," "laundry," and so on.

Each envelope is given her salary check when she gets her salary check and when it is due the money is there for it. She is not the girl who wastes her money on the spur of the moment.

Another girl puts away a certain amount when she gets her salary, saying laughingly, "If I don't have it I can't spend it." But though she saves by this method, she probably doesn't get as much out of what she spends as though she planned more carefully.

Planning in one form or another is the keynote to saving. Hasty buying and thoughtless spending are its deathknell.

The girl who wants to save should plan carefully her expenditures, her regular weekly expenses as well as the twice a year expenditure for clothes.

The girl who wants to save should not buy her clothes thoughtlessly. She should deliberately plan her clothes campaign, know beforehand what she wants, buy that and that only. She will be dressed with better taste and better get the worth of her money.

This all may be tiresome and boring to a girl who is used to spending her money as she pleases.

But it will pay a girl to spend her money as she pleases.

It puts a different aspect on life to have a few hundred dollars in bank. And it may put you in a position to grasp opportunities which will mean much to a happy and useful future, but which you might be afraid to venture without some money to your credit to fall back upon.

HOUSEWIFE HINTS.

Two strips of shoe leather to tack heavy ropes to the house or trellis, since it outlasts twine or strips of goods.

Put out the corners from all heavy envelopes, for they are excellent for holding out letters sent by mail. They also make good book corner protectors.

Knitted underwear makes the softest and best ironing holders. Put several thicknesses together and quilt on the machine. Make a tape loop of string the holder to a nail.

A box of sanding and a can of shirps, both prepared for eating and served together on lettuce leaves with a dressing of oil, vinegar, onion juice, salt and pepper, make a delicious salad. Mayonnaise dressing may be used.

Be careful where you place your dressing tables and mirrors. Sunlight will destroy the finest French plate, and it is impossible to restore the backing without considerable expense. Dimness will destroy it in the same manner.

When scraping new potatoes they will invariably blacken the hands. There is nothing better than a piece of lemon for removing the blackness, and when obstinate if a pinch of powdered pumice is placed on the lemon it will instantly remove the stain.

To quickly prepare coarsened or horseradish sauce for scraping and lessening the task and the usual "erying" when grating the horseradish by running the roots through the chopping machine. An hour and fifteen pieces of horseradish should be pared before running the roots through the machine.

To have a hardy scented ramble make a good showing plant it with the rack extending north and south.

In this way the rose gets all of the sun and the western sun and will bloom profusely on both sides.

This is one of the most luxuriant roses one can cultivate, and it delights in the entire sunshine of the day. If the long branches of the rose are cut down and covered with earth it will make a new branch, and in this way one can soon have an arbor of scented roses.

Wife—In a battle of tongues a woman can hold her own.
Husband—My wife, I'm afraid she can; but she never does.

The Best in the West AND THE WEST THE BEST

The evenings are growing long and cold. An easy chair and a paper beside the heater begin to look good. It is time to decide what paper to take.
we say papers for the time is past when the farmer is satisfied with one periodical in his home. Here is an offer that will interest you now, and meet the needs of readers of both sexes, young and old, during the long winter months when the papers have become family friends.

There is the Weekly Free Press and Prairie Farmer with the news of the world and live departments for the farmer, his wife and the young people;
The North-West Farmer, issued twice a month, the recognized farm paper of the west; The Western Home Monthly, full of bright stories and interesting information for every member of the family.

These three publications, including your own home paper with all the local happenings, four papers in all for $3 a year.

Find enclosed the sum of $3.00 for which send the papers mentioned below to the
